

Course Overview:

Medical Supply Chain is the ultimate competitive advantage in the medical field as it connection to health and patient safety, a life of patient is intolerant to unavailability of products and services. Throughout this course learners will be introduced to the concept of supply chain management as a core science and practice

Course Objective:

- Understand what constitutes any supply chain.
- Learn Five driving forces lead to increasing supply chain role
- Learn various supply chain strategies that leads to competitive advantage
- Acquire knowledge in the various tradeoffs and directions between Supply Chain functions
- The importance of external collaboration to reach supply chain excellence
- Gain better understanding to the role that warehouses in any supply chain strategy
- How inventory management planning and control can help reduce supply chain cost
- How to create alignments in your supply chain

Course Outline:

Module 1: Introduction to supply Chain Definition of Medical supply chain management and activities Development of the concept at Hospitals Supply Chain strategies Managing supply chain performance

Module 2: Supply Management Forecasting Techniques Forecasting Collaboration Procurement Management

Module 3: Demand Management

Medical Transportation regulations Warehousing Management Traceability in the medical field, Medication fraud/Counterfeiting Inventory planning and control

Who Should Attend:

The increasing and demanding role for Supply Chain makes it essentials to all professions to get involved in Supply chain & logistics science to draw better understanding for their work environment supply chain's. Supply Chain has extended nowadays to reach manufacturing and logistics functions, professionals in purchasing, warehousing

Training Language:

Eng/Ar

Training Methodology:

- Presentation & Slides
- Audio Visual Aids
- Interactive Discussion
- Participatory Exercise
- Action Learning
- Class Activities
- Case Studies
- Workshops
- Simulation